About BUXKIN

Tactile, natural, sustainable.

Acoustic wall finishes.

We have found a creative way to change sustainability in tactile material.

After years of experience in contemporary fabrics and design, Jan Veldhoen's research leads to the origins of BUXKIN, claiming a redefinition of recycled materials for upholstery and wallcovering through a ribbed look.

It's a range of acoustic wall coverings made from recycled and sustainable materials. It is usually applied to walls but looks fantastic on furniture and can be used to connect furniture to the architectural finishes. It is ideal for offices or conference rooms due to the product's acoustic performance. Made in The Netherlands.
